Borel fire information meeting draws emotional Havilah residents

CATHERINE STACHOWIAK

Sunday, August 4 Steve Rasmusson, who is public information officer of the California Interagency Incident Management Team 11 opened the Borel Fire Community Meeting at Wallace Middle School, thanking the public for sharing support and comments.

Assemblyman Vince Fong attended the meeting and so did Supervisor Phillip Peters' staff members Leigh Ann Cook and Cody Criswell.

Members of the community from Havilah complained that they felt their properties were not protected well enough, and that not enough firefighting resources were sent to Havilah, which ended up burning down; a town with historical sites.

Evacuees had questions about their children attending school, which firefighters could not answer at the meeting, because they're not school

The first speaker was operations sections chief Mark LaMont. He said the goal was to bring the fire to full containment. He also noted that his family was praying for residents of the valley. He said firefighters left their own homes to protect the homes of local residents

He got a call on July 25 telling him his team would be activated and moving towards this incident and what included the Trout, the Long and the Borel fires at which time the Borel fire was about 1,000 acres. He said their team was supposed to come on July 28 but traveled early on July 26. They were able to join with the effort to help move things out. "We were ever so happy that we were able to get folks out of the Havilah Valley, as the fire ran through that area," he said.

There were 1504 personnel involved in the 59,000-acre effort. The fire was able to move rapidly because of the conditions at that time. Firefighters currently have seven type-1 crews, 26 type-2 crews, 72 fire engines, 23 water tenders, 21 dozers, 4 excavators, 3 graders, and at the height of the event they had 16 helicopters.

The fire was able to move rapidly due to topographical features, which don't provide for operational stopping points in conditions and this pushed the fire up from about 3,000 acres, to about 40,000 acres in a very rapid progression over a brief period.

The new sergeant, Matt Harkey told the Kern Valley Sun on Friday, August 2 that he just came to the Kern Valley

Harkey has been with the Kern County Sheriff's Office for over 13 years. And during that time he has worked in almost every assignment

Harkey started working in the jail, and he got assigned to the Metro Patrol in Bakersfield. He transferred to the Task Substation where he worked for about three years. He worked in the department's Electronic Ankle Monitoring Unit for a few years before he transferred to Metro Patrol again.

Harkey said, "I actually worked up here as a Senior Deputy for almost two years. So I was assigned here. So I worked up here between November 2019 and August of 2021. I promoted to sergeant about a year ago. Since promoting to a sergeant I worked at our jail and then I worked what's called our East Area Night Supervisor Position. So I was in charge of our Mojave, Tehachapi, Rosamond, Boron area at night, supervised the deputies there. I really enjoyed working up here as a senior deputy, so I thought this position

River Rhythm kick-off well attended

CATHERINE STACHOWIAK

Bringing some country music to the valley, Friday, August 2, the Kern Valley Hospital Foundation held its first night of the River Rhythms Concert Series, at Circle Park in Kernville. Julia Lyons was the first concert this summer. And the park lawn was full with concertgoers anticipating her vocals.

There will be several shows to follow, which the foundation promises to feature, every Friday through the end of August. The shows will include Rockslide, Left Coast Groovies, and Angels Roost.

After holding a small prayer circle with her band members, before the concert country singer, songwriter, and guitarist Julia Lyons told the Kern Valley Sun, "We definitely put God first before anything and especially in our music. He blessed us with that so you might as well give it back to Him. I think He inspires my music but also the direction. Jesus is such an important person in my life, so pretty much anything He says goes. So music, family, friends, He inspires pretty much everything."

Lyons' band includes her brother who is the fiddle player, and a couple of her friends on keyboard and drums.

Lyons was very happy to be performing that evening. She said, "It's exciting. We have some fun songs too.'

On behalf of the foundation, Orion Sanders said, "It's great to have everybody out. Kern Valley Hospital Foundation putting it on, River Rhythms. Like last year Charlie's still looking over us, so it's all good. You guys are going to get a big treat today, some great California country.'

Sanders said Lyons put together her own band, and young in her craft, the performer would be going back to Nashville in about 12 days to cut some additional recordings.

Sanders also said he was putting out a "shout out" to all the firefighters. He also expressed pride and appreciation to all the firefighting agencies keeping the public safe during the recent wildfires

"Tonight River Rhythms is sponsored by Quality Home Services," Sanders said.

Lyons said, "It is my pleasure and my joy to bring my band up here. We are so excited. We have some fun songs for you."

Press receives notice of proposed major project weeks late

CATHERINE STACHOWIAK

A proposed project utilizing over 560,000-acre-feet at the Isabella Reservoir, that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers operates as its lower reservoir, would also include one of three new upper reservoir alternatives Erskine Reservoir, Fay Reservoir, or Cane Reservoir.

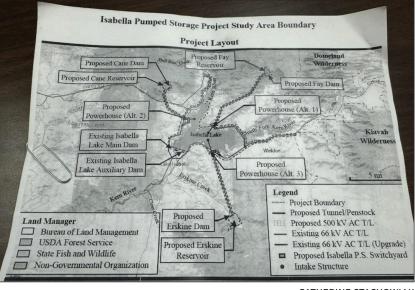

Although a notification, from the Department of Energy's Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, to the public was dated June 11, 2024, the Kern Valley Sun did not receive this notice until Friday, July 26, 2024. The public only had 60 days to comment from the original date.

The applicant Premium Energy Holdings LLC began the process back in March by applying to attain a preliminary permit in order to study the feasibility of the project occupying Federal Land, which the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) and the US Forest Service both manage in the Kern Valley area.

This project could interconnect to the grid at either Southern California Edison's Kernville-Isabella or Isabella-Weldon transmission lines

The preliminary permit did not initially authorize the applicant to use or enter the properties or waters therein without first attaining permission. Below was how the preliminary permit application described the project.

The Erskine Reservoir Alternative could offer the following

I may be the president of the Kern River Valley Chamber of Commerce and an insurance agent who has many insureds who have lost everything but most of all I am a concerned resident of the KRV knowing this could have been much worse. Our valley has seen its share of fires and I am hoping we can go many years before we go through this again.

Your chamber will have its monthly general membership meeting on August 14, 2024 at the Eagles Lodge in Mountain Mesa. Our guest speaker will be Gab Garcia BLM Manager and his team, after the Borel Fire this could be an interesting meeting.

The Hospital Foundation will be hosting River Rhythms Summer Concert Series in Circle Park every Friday in Kernville. If you wish to come out and enjoy the music it's free and it starts at 6pm.

On August 17 we will be hosting our next Bingo Bonanza at the senior center, we are looking forward to seeing as many of you as possible for a night of entertainment which all of us need after this past weeks challenges.

I am sorry for the not so upbeat message but this tragic event all of us had to experience started with a vehicle accident on highway 178 which took the life of the driver and followed by a raging fire that has destroyed so much history in our valley. I have no words other than to say the Kern River Valley has always come together in time of need and today is no different, we have multiple organizations ready to lend a hand to those in need. I had the opportunity to speak with Roy Fluhart, current

Havilah California - Historic Loss

GAITI AITAITI

President of the Havilah Centennial Group, Inc. (aka The Havilah Historical Society and Museum) Mr. Fluhart has been the President for the past two years and currently resides in Kernville but he has deep family roots established in 1930 with his Mother and Uncle raised in Havilah. His mother left but returned as an adult with her husband and family in 1948 (Roy was about 2 years old). Roy's father started working on the construction of the Isabella Dam at that time. Mr. Fluhart still has cousins and other relatives residing in the Havilah area. (It is unknown if the homes are still standing)

When was Havilah established and by who? Approx

1864 and the person credited with the founding was Asbury Harpending.

What is the historical significance of Havilah? Havilah became the first county seat of Kern County in 1966. Gold discoveries in the area created a rush of miners which led to the formation of the town.

Now that the Borel fire has burned the majority of Havilah, what has been preserved and what is gone that can never be replaced? Actually other buildings survived in Havilah in addition to our Schoolhouse. The museum building can be replaced because it was built in 1966 but the contents are all gone and that's the big loss.

History (Wikipedia)Asbury Harpending arrived in the area, where there were many southern-sympathizers, in 1864. After finding gold deposits on Clear Creek, a tributary of the Kern River, the group claimed a townsite on the road from Keyesville to Tehachapi and named it after the Biblical land of Havilah, "where there is gold" according to Genesis 2:11. By the end of 1865, Havilah was a boom town with 147 business buildings, thirteen saloons, and a population of nearly a thousand, mostly miners working the Clear Creek Mining District.

Havilah was the county seat at the founding of Kern County on April 2, 1866, and the county's first newspaper, the Havilah Courier, began publication that same year. The county government was moved to Bakersfield in 1874

A post office operated at Havilah from 1866 to 1918. The Havilah School District, formed in 1866, was the first public school in Kern County.

Personal Note:

Our hearts go out to all Borel Fire victims at this time. May Havailah and the surrounding areas find the peace, healing, and support that they seek. Wishing healing energy during this time of loss.

BOREL MEETING

sion map of the fire. Then he showed the public the operational map, with the pace map, with primary lines they established based on weather predictions and fire analysis. A little bit of a push down south and south east, validating their map and then they got marching orders from local Forest Service to preserve life, property, and the environment.

The point of origin on the 178, along the Kern River Road corridor was a challenge because firefighters had to keep the fire on the east or west side of the corridor, to get the fire up the 178 to the north, and keep the fire south of Bodfish, holding it in the saddle, which is north of Havilah.

As firefighters got into Valley View they were ahead of application, doing prep work, and they were able to work the fire. The most fire activity just before the Sunday August 4 meeting had been in the Brown Meadows area and they were hoping to keep the fire at the south fork of Erskine Creek, containing it. Firefighters were able to insert more crews Saturday, working aggressively on Sunday to hem in the open line, which had not yet been contained around the fire's edge. LaMont said, "We are very confident that by this evening we will have what we would call scratch line around that portion of the fire and then we'll take several days to go in and prove the entirety of that line all the way around

LaMont said he was confident that the eastern progression would be brought into submission and firefighters could hold that line and keep more acreage from being added to the fire ground. Crews continued to work at Brown Meadows area and Solomon Ridge just north of Thompson Creek. They were working aggressively to build an indirect line that wasn't directly on the fire's edge. They anticipated another two working shifts would have gotten that area under control. Down north of the Walker Basin area, crews had been able to work the fire's edge and keep the fire from threatening anything at Breckenridge. Firefighters were working on keeping the line from being threatened.

Incident meteorologist Pete Curran explained to the crowd that wind, low humidity, lightening and very high temperatures all drive wild fires. "When the team first got here we had very strong westerly winds." He said, "Weather is the primary driver of these wild land fires." He said understanding what the weather threats were helped him forecast for the fire fighting team how to best respond to the fire.

Gabe Garcia field manager of Bureau of Land Management said he'd been working with Tony Edwards who is Forest Supervisor for the Sequoia National Forest on fighting the Trout Fire and Long Fire for the past few weeks. He said from a fire suppression standpoint things were looking good however there would need to be control of erosion and post fire clean up. "In the Federal Government we have what we call a burned area emergency response team that comes out. That team is on its way and should be here in about a week," Garcia said.

The burned area emergency response team consists of hydrologists, soil scientists, engineers, vegetation specialists and biologists. The team would check various severely burned areas to minimize the impacts by diverting potential for excessive water runoff. Garcia said they welcome input from the community and questions. Chief Deputy Dionisio Mitchell of the Kern County Fire Department told the public that the fire was burning in ways they hadn't seen in a long time. He said the department's highest priority is human life. That was why they issued evacuation orders. He knew that the given weather and the typography they could be up for a bad fire. The department had support in Havilah, and Havilah was now in the recovery phase. The department had to check the area to ensure public safety. He thanked the public for the patience residents have shown. He said in the coming days they'd have a better synopsis about what is going on in terms of returning the public to evacuated areas.

Kern County Sheriffs Lt. Michael Dorkin said during every operational period, day shift and night shift, the department has a sergeant and eight deputies staffing the fire, manning hard closures, patrolling evacuation areas and preventing looting, break-ins and other crimes.

The department had Search and Rescue groups, particularly in Havilah. As far as they know no one was missing and no loss of life has been found or reported.

Local Search and Rescue also received assistance from the Los Angeles Fire Department and Urban Search and Rescue.

What officers have been assigned to the fire are completely dedicated to the fire, while the sheriff substation is still staffed to normal capacity for regular patrol.

Incident commander from the California Inter-agency Incident Management Team 11 Chris Fogle said his agency places large orders for resources. Resources have been getting thin with the large amounts of fires located in several states. He said the community was fortunate to get the resources it needed and tap additional resources, such as night flying aircraft to protect the communities of Walker Basin and Bodfish areas.

Elks student backpack drive successful

CATHERINE STACHOWIAK

All through July the Kern River Valley Elks Lodge and other organizations, hand in hand with Senator Shannon Grove's office, participated in a backpack drive with organizations distributing the back to school items. The distribution event was at the Elks Lodge, in Wofford Heights, Saturday August 3.

Last year the KRV Elks Lodge had more than 200 backpacks to distribute, just as they did this year. Participating organizations, this year, included high school backpacks and other school supplies within its give away.

The organizations gave away black backpacks with various color zippers to choose from and a plethora of styles of lunch pails for younger children.

Organizer for the event, Pat Terrell said, "This is our 17th annual year. We used to just have a little carnival thing and a few back to school (items.) And then one of our members had the idea to get the backpacks and put school supplies in, so that we've been doing for 17 years. Last year we gave away 211 backpacks. With the fire and everything we've had some disruptions."

The Elks Lodge was planning to have backpacks available for folks who couldn't come to the event that morning, due to the evacuations, Terrell said.

Drug awareness is one of the Elks' big things. Terrell told the Kern Valley Sun, "We serve communities, we serve youth and we serve veterans. And one of our youth activities is drug awareness so kids can have a bright future."

Colleen Holmes, the Elks' Drug Awareness organizer said that the Holmes manned a table with volunteers Kim Riley and Tina Baer during the event, giving away bags to the kids with fidgets, coloring books, crayons, stuffed animals and book marks along with drug awareness pamphlets for parents.

Vendors at the event included US Forest Service, Kern County

Sheriff's Office, Liberty Ambulance, and Search and Rescue. Kern River Valley Bridge

Connection was one organization helping to distribute school supplies. Founder of KRVBC Karen Zuber said, "Teachers always ask for students to bring in supplies, so we're going to donate them to the students, so that they don't feel left out. And then we have teen

The first is a Disaster Relief event held as a popup event Wednesday, August 7, from 10am to 1pm at 6069 Lake Isabella Boulevard in Lake Isabella. There evacuees can find household items donated by Dollar General and other sponsors and distributed by Kern River Valley Bridge Connection.

The second event Chief Deputy Dionisio Mitchell of the Kern

Kern County Rule Change

For people on Medicare and Medi-Cal, in 2025 you will only have a choice of 2 plans

Anthem Blue Cross & Kern Family Health Care

Unless you seek a private plan before September 30, 2024, you will have no other options. During the Annual Enrollment Period (AEP), October 15 to December 7, you will only have a choice between the Anthem Blue Cross and the Kern Family Health Care plans.

These plans will be changing. Benefits will be reduced as the entire Medicare insurance industry needs to buckle down expenses in light of new laws effective January 1, 2025.

You do have options. Any plan selected in August and September will be GRANDFATHERED for 2025. Now is the ONLY TIME you will have the option to change.

If you are okay with Anthem or Kern Family, then nothing needs to be done. If you would like to explore other options, call us. We will request a list of ALL your medications and names of ALL of your doctors. Plan suitability is our utmost concern!

Bushling Olympic in track and field experience

SUBMITTED BY MARCIE ELLIS BUSHLING Jayda Bushling awaits her turn to run her event in the Junor Olympics qualifying meet in Texas

RAY CONNER

An experience of a lifetime and one that makes her want to try again next year. This is the continuing story of one of our own that pushed herself to have the opportunity to qualify for the Junior Olympics.

Jayda Bushling, gave it her best effort and completed this year's goal of making it to the National Junior Olympic Track & Field Championships meet in Texas. She has stated that she hopes to have the same opportunity next year. She faced a lot of adverse conditions, but persevered and performed at a level that gave her the confidence to not give up on her dream.

Because of weather conditions causing all kinds of issues for the meet directors to place the championships on hold. They stopped the meet on several occasions due to lightning in the area. They had to do this for obvious safety reasons. But this caused the athletes problems as their routines were disrupted. Another issue for Bushling came in the way of a medical one. She battled this during her time in Texas, but continued to push forth and make the effort. Bushling stated, "It was a great experience. I had fun and look forward to returning next year, but to more events."

There were well over 300 teams that had athletes make it to this meet. Plenty of competition and plenty of down time as all the events were held in one place. The effort put forth by the athletes that battled adversity can only be summed up as an exceptional experience. Not every one was a winner, but just making it to this prestigious event can only be described as being the definition of a winner.

Getting the chance to run at a college track and field venue made it a lasting experience for Bushling. The atmosphere of the competition was a loud one according to Bushling. She said, "There were so many people there and it was loud with cheering.

I was impressed by the field and that it was specific to track. It was super cool."

When her time in Texas was coming to a close, Bushling looked back and had the realization that along the way, there were plenty of people that offered their support in the accomplishing her goal. She and her family want everyone to know this support was greatly appreciated. From the individuals that gave their support to each organization that was eager to lend a helping hand.

Needles to say, the countdown for the next attempt at qualifying for the Junor Olympics has already begun. And it is a safe bet that Bushling will give it her all in heading back to accomplish a bigger goal.

Youth pheasant hunt making a return

RAY CONNER

Due to the efforts of the Kern River Valley chapter of the A-Z Foundation Group, the previously defunct youth pheasant hunt is making a comeback.

This group that takes pride in supporting veterans, the Honor Flight, and special need children, will be undertaking the revival of a once very popular event. The fund-raising dinners and other fund-raisers along the way has provided the A-Z group, both the financial means and the way to head into this new venture. They have partnered with a heavy hitter as they will be sponsored and funded by The Friends of the NRA.

The hunt will take place on privately owned property. It has been established and the owner of the property hopes due diligence in respecting the land on the day of the hunt. The owner has reached out to the A-Z Group to provide a safe haven for hunting and making the experience one to remember for the hunters.

This hunt will be open to youths aged 10-15. They must have a hunting license and will also have to be accompanied by a parent or guardian on the day they choose to hunt. There will be four sessions of hunting and limited to 40 hunters. Only 10 youth hunters will be allowed out each session. Also, the group has allowed for 10 alternates, just in case hunters do not show.

The dates of the hunt will be October 26-27. There will be a morning session from 8-11:30 a.m. and the afternoon session from 1-4:30 p.m. Registration begins one hour prior to the hunt start time and this event will take place rain or shine. The deadline to confirm entry for the hunt is Sept. 15. You can contact Bill Stonebarger at (661) 342-6831 for applications for the hunt and to get your name on the list of hunters. It is a first come, first serve as far as getting your name on the hunting roster for the session. All safety gear will be provided, including a hat, with the exception of Snake Gators as hunters will be walking through bushes that could be home to snakes. The safety committee will do a walk through prior to the hunt to help eliminate the possibility, but better safe than sorry. To further the safety issue, it is the A-Z Groups hope that Game Wardens will be on hand to answer any additional questions hunters might have.

The A-Z Group is also looking for dog handlers volunteers to take part in the hunt. If you would like to help in this area, please contact Bill Stonebarger at (661) 342-6831. Breakfast pastries and lunch for each session will be provided by the Mt. Mesa Men's Club.

This is the first step in hopefully a long walk of returning the youth pheasant hunt to the Kern River Valley. Do not be left out on this new adventure, get your name on the list to create a memory for youth hunters.

Speaking Sports with TJ Teams yield to their stars season and hope to sign a big contract during free agency. The players that do this take huge gambles every vear due to the fact that they don't have any guarantee of this working out, but the reward makes the risk worth it. We have seen many players receive extensions from putting the pressure on their teams in order to keep them.

Most star players do this when they want to get a huge contract extension and their team won't give them an extension. They typically end up winning in these scenarios because they are huge names in the sport, and everyone knows the value that they have.

Jordan Love of the Green Bay Packers is the most recent example of this. Love had threatened to not show up to mandatory training that the player is hoping for camp without receiving an extension and now he is the highest paid player in NFL history after signing a 4 year 220-million-dollar extension.

There is a great chance that many players begin to use this as leverage in order to sign huge contract extensions.

There has been a long history of star players wanting contract extensions and receiving their extensions by threatening to skip training camps. If you look back at the history, it is how most of the highest paid players get their deals.

This happens every single year and it is always entertaining to watch due to the fact that they create so much drama and trade rumors start to be thrown around because of them wanting a contract extension and certain teams being desperate to land star players.

When did politics and agenda pushing become part of the Olympics? Is this a new sport that only the organizing committee played? Is this what we have to look forward to every four years? When I started watching the opening ceremonies I was hoping for a spectacular show. Instead, we were forced to watch a boring, not about the athletes, but the new French regime and their agenda. From the countries on boats that slid down the Seine where even the athletes looked bored. To the extremely poor decisions on what was being covered.

Summer Olympics not my choice this year

Then to watch them mock a Christian rite, just to prove they could. I guess NBC, enjoyed this because they pushed it in our faces under the guise the USA needed to see it. This was the first of the last straws for me as I zipped through the rest as I had the benefit of having it recorded.

Okay, so then I figured I could watch the summer games and root on the USA athletes. This way still, support the country and be allowed to enjoy them. Instead, all I got from the events is the so-called celebrities that were attending the games. What happen to celebrating the athletes? I guess that wasn't part of the coverage. I became so disappointed in watching the coverage of a myriad of events that I decided to shut it down. Another last straw sighting.

They say the third time is a charm, but I can tell you in this case it was not. I waited a few days and thought maybe now we'd get coverage of the USA athletes and their ups and downs. The winners of gold, silver, bronze, or some time not making the podium. It seemed that only minimal clips from events and then not seeing other athletes that were competing. Again, a real sense of disappointment set in and I then made the decision to forgo more watching of these games. The third last straw so far.

I really tried to push down my disappointment and just watch the Summer Olympics in Paris. Then came the controversy in women's boxing. It seriously made my stomach turn and a sourness floated around. How is it possible that anyone is okay with a biological man punching a woman? I realize we are living in a so-called inclusive world, but this literally made me question the role of Olympic organizers and the committees that allowed this to happen. This was the final straw and I have yet to watch any more of the summer games in Paris.

I know this is probably not the consensus, but that's what makes this country so great. Not everyone has the same opinion and that's okay. As you can see, I gave it multiple chances to grab me and say watch, but in the end, I find it better that I broke the last straw and sat back and didn't watch. That's a Matter of Opinion!
